Drescher Achieves Ullmann Award

Palle C. Drescher, of Denmark, left, had to hunt for 16 different European big game species to achieve the first two Echelons of "The Ullmann Award for European Big Game Trophy Animals." He hunted in a total of 6 different European countries to achieve his collection. Congratulating him on his European hunting achievements is the Chairman of the "Ullmann Award Foundation," Norbert Ullmann. For further information, visit www.ullmannaward.de.

Lee R. Anderson Achieves Ullmann Award

Lee R. Anderson travelled 21 times with his private jet to Europe to complete his collection of 32 European big game animals and qualify to achieve the fourth echelon of "The Ullmann Award for European Big Game Trophy Animals." During his hunts, he visited 11 European countries and mentioned, "I'm very happy that the hunting toward the Ullmann Award made me travel and get to know so many European countries and places 'off the beaten track.' Great program to increase the international hunting community awareness of all Europe has to offer!"
