

Nunez Seoane Receives Ullmann Award

and has collected enough species to qualify for the First through Third Echelons of "The Ullmann Award for European Big Game Trophy Animals." In a recent public ceremony, covered by TV stations from Jerez de la Frontera, Norbert Ullmann, right, Chairman of the Ullmann Award Foundation presented Alberto Nunez de Seoane, left, with the Award Echelons he has achieved.

Alberto Nunez de Seoane, from Jerez de la Frontera in Spain, is not only a longtime Life Member of SCI, but also co-owner of Cega Multimedia in Madrid, the publications company SCI has a cooperation agreement with, as well as the President of the Executive Committee of the CINEGETICA Hunt Show, largest and most visited hunt show on the entire Iberian Peninsula. Despite all he does, he finds time to hunt and has amassed a large collection of trophy animals from all continents, being a recognizable name in the SCI World Hunting Awards system, as well as having been honored in being inducted as a member of the Culminum Magister mountain hunters In Europe he has hunted in more than 20 countries

Zeni Achieves Ullmann Award

Victor E. Zeni, of Monongahela, PA, has travelled extensively through Europe hunting big game with his bow. He hunted in eight different countries to achieve a total of 20 different species and be the first bowhunter to achieve the first through fifth Echelons of "The Ullmann Award for European Big Game Trophy Animals."